

HISTORY

Dating back to the late 19th Century, the Colonies were built as part of the co-operative movement for working-class housing.

A dispute over working hours led to the formation of the Edinburgh Co-operative Building Company in 1861, founded by seven Edinburgh stonemasons and supported by a unity of local artisans.

By 1911, they had built thousands of houses throughout the city, with a unique sense of identity created that has endured for over a hundred years.
